

Teachers in Episcopal Schools for Freedmen, 1865-1877

Compiled by Mary Sudman Donovan

*To compile this list, I searched through issues of The Spirit of Missions from 1867 through 1874 [identified in source as Spirit] for names of teachers working with the freedmen. I added teachers listed in the Protestant Episcopal Almanac & Church Directory, (New York: T. Whittaker, 1875 & 1876) [identified here as Episcopal Almanac].*

The teachers are listed here in alphabetical order. In most cases, the information about them has been paraphrased. Clergy who taught in these schools are available on another list.

Aiken, Amanda St. Stephens Church, Petersburg, VA

Home: Holy Trinity, Brooklyn

Spirit 1866: 157 - Miss Aiken sent to Petersburg to open a school there.

Spirit 1866: 162-2 - Letter to Dr. Littlejohn: 7 or 8 schools here with 18 teachers sent by different states. Distribute clothing from the barrels. "It did our hearts good, I assure you, to replace their rags with something to keep them warm. It was much past our dinner hour before we remembered that we were weary or hungry. . . I remained with my friend (who is living by herself, supplying her own articles of food, and taken care of by the friends she came to serve,) til Saturday. . . [plans re school] I find that ten thousand of the population here are black and not one-third of that number are in schools. My friend assures me, from her own observation, that I will not find much ruble in gathering up for a large day-school, the greatest difficulty is in obtaining a building. But as the need of an evening school was paramount, for those who wosrk during the day, Captain B+++ offered the use of his large room, already warmed, and a box of school books. I procured lamps, and opened a school there last evening with fifty-four scholars . . . which we consider a decided success. There is evidently plenty of material for a large evening school."

Spirit 1866: 228 - great pleasure in distributing the supplies you sent. Have found another room suitable for a school. Rented and hope to have it cleaned and whitewashed, the benches made ready for school by next Wed. or Thurs.

In the county of Brunswick, Virginia, in the very heart of "the black belt," during the latter part of the seventies and early eighties, Mrs. "Pattie" Buford, a cultivated Southern lady of refinement, gave up herself completely in ministering as an angel of mercy among the poorest of the poor of these black people, and by her wonderful devotion won the love and confidence of the Colored people of that entire region. Through her influence a young Colored man entered the Church who was destined to prove the most conspicuous constructive leader for his people of all our Colored clergy. What we need in New Berne is a church for the Colored people; they like the church; it seems to be just what they need.

They can have very good music among themselves, for they learn the church music very readily. Spirit 1866: 162 – From Mrs. Mary Starkey in Richmond – 175 children in day schools and 100 in Sunday schools. "Still they come and we gather them in." "There are very many lost entirely destitute of both food and clothing, and we have in fact nothing now for the women and girls . . . Many of them pine daily for their homes, and their masters, and speak of them with love and reverence. . . . The school is improving rapidly; we have some classes that we feel very much pleased with indeed, but it will take months, and years, and patient training and teaching. We are progressing finely with our Sunday school; they are improving very much in the Catechism, and in the responses. . . we are trying to prepare a class for Baptism when the Bishop comes; we each have quite a number on our list. Several ladies have called upon us, and given us encouragement that they will assist in the Sunday school."

Spirit 1866: 728 - "Teachers" list,

Spirit 1866: 101-101 – letter from Miss. Wendell , one of teachers sent to Newburn
"We know that you have sent us out, expecting us to be brave soldiers, and we mean to be; and; I am sure, anyone to see the distress and sufferings of these poor outcasts, which we have witnessed even in our short journeying among them, ought to be willing to bear a great deal of annoyance and deprivation for the blessed privilege of alleviating, in a measure, their distress. We met with a Miss S____ here who has been very active during three years of the war in nursing the soldiers, and now devotes herself entirely to the freedmen. She went this afternoon to a wretched shanty, without windows and door, where she found a family in great misery; the mother sick, lying in a corner covered with a few rags; two children almost starved; and the youngest child lying dead in an old starch-bag, where it had been for over two days, there being no one to bury it."

Spirit 1866: 226 - two boys are reading ancient history at home, devote Fridays to religious instruction reciting the catechism, chanting, etc. sitting watching some "refractory scholars who are "kept in" for bad behavior." Dread of smallpox has kept children at home but they are coming back now." None but an eye-witness can full appreciate the great necessity there is for active and untiring labor among these people. Just arising from a state of degradation and bondage, the spirits of many are so crushed and broken as to need wise and gentle teaching, and earnest efforts to awaken ambition in their almost stultified souls; but there are others whose eagerness to learn seems almost incredible. One old woman, of sixty years, in the evening school, carries her primer with her about her daily work.

Spirit 1866: 342 - need clothing and shaker bonnets for women class of baptism and confirmation, small pox is still a problem – Mr. Tucker's wife died on Friday and he is very sick – house is next door to our schoolhouse.
